Angel Ball Exceeds Expectations, Raises $3.5 Million

THE STARS WERE OUT in full force on Monday, Oct. 17 when Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation’s Angel Ball raised an incredible $3.5 million for cancer research. As always, the gala drew an overflow crowd of the entertainment world’s hottest celebrities, business moguls, and socialites. The red carpet was packed with press and onlookers vying for a glimpse of supermodel, Naomi Campbell, reality star Kim Kardashian and her “BFF” Lala Anthony, Eve, and other celebs. The unseasonable fall weather provided a beautiful setting for a night out at downtown hotspot Cipriani Wall Street, where guests included Natalie Cole, Clive Davis, Tommy & Dee Hilfiger, Solange Knowles, Kyle MacLachlan, Former New York Governor David Patterson, Nancy Rogers, former Google CEO Eric Schmidt, and Russell Simmons to name only a few.

Returning to host for a second year, Samantha Harris led the evening with her usual ebullience. Honorees included Vladislav Doronin, Naomi Campbell, Dr. Khalid Bin Jabor Al-Thani and Romero Britto and Lorraine Schwartz once again served as the evening’s Gala Sponsor. The show was jam packed with exciting musical performances by the winner of “The Voice” Javier Colon, CHIC featuring Nile Rodgers and NYC hipster DJ Cassidy spinning dance tunes. Kim Kardashian silenced the assemblage with a moving tribute to her father who died of cancer, immediately followed by a show stopping performance by Patti LaBelle’s rendition of “Over the Rainbow” while photos of Gabrielle Rich beamed in tribute from the stage screens. International art maven Simon de Pury energized the evening’s Live Auction by jumping into the crowd to get the final bids with additional proceeds raised through the online auction and raffle. A major gift from the Charles Evans Foundation which will support additional research initiatives was announced by the Chairman of the Foundation’s Medical Advisory Board, Memorial Sloan-Kettering’s Dr. Stephen D. Nimer. (Related article on page 3.)

A delicious dinner of rack of lamb au jus was served followed by Cipriani’s signature vanilla crème meringue cake. Wine flowed, guests crowded the dance floor, and were sent off into the night with an amazing Romero Britto gift bag chocked full of goodies. Of the $3.5 million raised, Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation will disburse an incredible $3 million directly to the nation’s leading physician-scientists whose hope is to end cancer in our lifetime. (See photo spread on pages 6 & 7.)
VIP Party Kicks Off Fall Gala

A private Manhattan townhouse was the scene for September’s Launch Party to celebrate the Angel Ball. Supporters Annabella and Charles Murphy graciously opened their exquisite Upper East Side residence to the Foundation and 200 of its donors and table buyers. Tastings Catering supplied the delicious hors d’oeuvres with spirits donated by Moët Hennessy & Belvedere Vodka. Co-Founder and President Denise Rich welcomed and thanked the crowd which remained at full capacity the entire evening.

Zohn’s Cancer Returns, Vows Fight

Angel Ambassador Ethan Zohn attended the Angel Ball with his beautiful girlfriend, Jenna Morasca on his arm, but the two were keeping some recent news under wraps. The 37-year old announced that his cancer was back—this time, in his lungs. After previously conquering non-Hodgkin’s lymphoma, Ethan began treatment the day after he spoke at the Foundation’s October gala. According to his doctors, Ethan responded well to the new “smart” chemotherapy regimen. Next up is another stem-cell transplant with one of Ethan’s brothers serving as his match. “Cancer isn’t going to slow me down,” Ethan told People Magazine. “I want people to know that you can still live a fulfilled life and move forward.” True to his word, Ethan completed his second New York City Marathon in 4:20 last November, ran the Walt Disney World Half Marathon in January, and continues to champion for causes like Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation, Cycle for Survival, as well as his own organization, Grassroot Soccer.

Game Changing Discovery in Treatment of CLL

Our Medical Advisory Board is comprised of the nation’s leading experts in the fields of hematology and oncology. Late last year, Dr. Carl June and his lab made international front page news when they went public with their incredible discovery in the treatment of leukemia. As published in The New England Journal of Medicine, June and his team at the University of Pennsylvania found a way to turn the patient’s own blood cells into attackers that kill their cancer cells. This bold, experimental Phase 1 study led to remission, both partial and complete, in its participants and offers future promise of curing cancers other than leukemia, as well. Dr. June, the Director of Translational Research at the Abramson Cancer Center and the lead researcher on this project was quoted in the New York Times on the study’s efficacy, “It worked great; we were surprised it worked as well as it did.” He went on to call their promising techniques “a harvest of the great; we were surprised it worked as well as it did.”

Foundation Announces Collaborative Grant Award

Thanks to a very generous major gift, our second in 2013, Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation announces the creation of a new collaborative research project. This new grant mechanism, made public at our November symposium, is open exclusively to senior investigators previously funded by the Foundation, and presents these proven and accomplished physician-scientists with the opportunity to explore new ideas together in a collaborative setting. Applicants are encouraged to partner with other former grantees on a project which, in keeping with the mission of the Foundation, focuses on clinically relevant research in the hematologic malignancies or on some supportive aspect of the care of patients with these diseases. With this grant, Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation hopes to further accelerate the extraordinary progress being made in cancer research today. The recipients of this exciting new award will be announced this summer.

“Charlie’s Angels” Donate Major Gift

Longtime Foundation champion, Bonnie Pfeiffer Evans along with her sister-in-law Alice Shure chose to lend their support where it was needed most. As trustees of The Charles Evans Foundation, Bonnie and Alice made an incredible donation to Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation so that two additional outstanding hematologic cancer research projects could get the green light, projects that would not otherwise have been funded.

The two grantees benefiting from this generous gift are Benjamin L. Ebert, M.D., Ph.D. of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Dorothy Sipkins, M.D., Ph.D. of The University of Chicago.

The Charles Evans Foundation honors the memory of Bonnie’s late husband and Alice’s brother, fashion executive and movie producer, Charles Evans. The Foundation supports a wide range of causes, from fire safety and public health initiatives to projects that assist the disadvantaged. Hailing Bonnie and Alice at the Angel Ball as “Charlie’s Angels,” Medical Advisory Board Chairman Stephen D. Nimer, M.D. remarked, “No one knows which idea in cancer research will lead to the next big breakthrough, but through the generosity of The Charles Evans Foundation we will be able to expand the number of dedicated and creative individuals searching for the solution.”

CHARLES EVANS foundation
Second Annual Symposium a Hit

The Loeb Central Park Boathouse once again served as the backdrop for the Second Annual Medical Symposium & Luncheon on Friday, November 4th. Grantees past and present flew in from around the country to discuss the latest discoveries in hematologic malignancies. Medical Advisory Board Chair, Dr. Stephen D. Nimer started the morning off by announcing the creation of a new collaborative grant for past grantees. Co-founder and President Denise Rich received a standing ovation at the top of the afternoon session for her years of dedication to funding research. The symposium, generously sponsored by Millennium: The Takeda Oncology Company, featured a variety of talks on the exciting research being conducted by these brilliant physician-scientists. This annual event provides a much-needed forum for both doctors and donors to understand more fully the focus of the Foundation’s mission. Plans for the 2012 event are now underway.

Young Philanthropists Unite

Save the Date for May 30th when our crew of philanthropic young professionals kicks off the summer with their “Millennial Ball” in support of cancer research. Event Chairs Andrew Warren and Louie Torrellas host an amazing committee of young people whose enthusiasm and commitment to giving back inspires us. “Millennial Ball” will be held in New York City at LAVO on 56th Street from 8pm to 11pm. All guests must be 18 years old to enter, 21 to drink. Tickets are available now on the Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation website or by calling (646) 861-2033. More details on honorees and performers will be announced throughout the summer!

Sailing Heals

Sailing Heals, a new Boston-based non-profit is helping patients connect with the calming effects of the water. Created by longtime Foundation supporter Michele Gallagher, their mission is to give cancer patients and their caretakers a healing day on a beautiful sailing vessel to see them through the challenge of ongoing treatments, or to celebrate a healthy prognosis afterward. Sailing Heals provides two-hour sails complete with lunch on-board and a little gift bag, to boot. Featured in the Wall Street Journal in 2011, this charity hopes to expand to other coastal cities in the near future.

Tech Comedy Ball Scores with Younger Set

The young, hip crowd turned out in style at New York nightspot, LAVO to celebrate tech, comedy and Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation. Several hundred guests packed the 56th Street club last July for drinks, dancing, and more. LAVO owner, Marc Packer generously donated his space and over $3,000 was raised for Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation’s research initiatives. The evening featured an open bar sponsored by Bocaj Vodka and Azuñia Tequila. Hosted by Emmy award winner Louie Torrellas and Founding Board Member Michèle Relia, the program included performances by comedian John Moses and magician Elliot Zimet. DJs Mysto & Pizzi kept the crowd on the dance floor and raffle prizes included a Tommy Hilfiger $250 gift certificate and dinner for two at LAVO. Guests left with gift bags full of goodies from Peacekeeper, Yes! To Carrots, Naiizee and more along with the good feeling that comes from giving back.

Date Set for 2012 Angel Ball

Join us this October for one of New York’s most talked about galas. Mark your calendars for Monday, October 22, 2012 where Denise, Daniella, and Iona will once again host the Angel Ball at Cipriani Wall Street in the heart of NYC’s Financial District. More details on honorees and performers will be announced throughout the summer! Check our website for updates: www.gabriellesangels.org

United Kingdom Welcomes Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation
Gabrielle’s sisters, Ilona Rich Schachter and Daniella Rich Klistock, both call London home and wanted to introduce Gabrielle’s Angels to the UK. So, on December 8th, Ilona and her husband Kenny Schachter opened their beautiful home for an event sponsored by Total Management, Champagne Pommery, Belvedere Vodka and Soleil D’Or. The holiday soiree brought out all of London’s hippest philanthropists and A-Listers. Delicious canapes were provided by Nobu and tunes spun by DJ Zara Martin. Hot boy-band Blake moved the crowd with their signature hits while a live auction consisting of half a dozen high-end luxury items raised nearly £6000. A wonderful introduction of the charity to the European set, plans are now underway for a summer event, so mark your calendars for June 7th at London’s iconic Battersea Power Station!

Please visit our UK website for details: www.gabriellesangels.co.uk

Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation UK is a registered charity, Number 1144860. To purchase tickets for June 7, please call +44(0) 207 384 6309 or email tickets@total-management.co.uk
Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation is one of the largest non-governmental sources of grant support to blood cancer research in the nation. We recently awarded $3 million in new grants. The ten doctors highlighted here are the latest recipients of our three-year Medical Research Awards. Nine additional investigators were selected for one-time gifts of $25,000. These include: Tanja A. Gruber, M.D., Ph.D. (St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital); Boglarka Gyurkocz, M.D. (Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center); Elizabeth Hexner, M.D. (Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania); Xi Jiang, Ph.D. (The University of Chicago); Tami Kingsbury, Ph.D. (University of Maryland School of Medicine); Dawn Lemanne, M.D., MPH (Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center).

Arash Ash Alizadeh, MD, PhD, Stanford University
Project Title: Prospective Validation and Genetic Basis of a Novel Molecular Risk Predictor for Diffuse large B cell Lymphoma

“This support allows us to apply genomic approaches to targeting risk in the commonest lymphoma, and understanding its genetic basis.”

Arnob Banerjee, MD, PhD, University of Maryland
Project Title: Genomic and Functional Identification of Critical Targets in Peripheral T cell Lymphoma

“This funding makes a difference to my research by supporting the early development of a project designed to move forward from recent exciting advances in cancer genomics.”

Benjamin L. Ebert, MD, PhD, Dana-Farber Cancer Institute
Project Title: Identification of Genetic Dependencies in Leukemia Stem Cells

“This funding offers me the opportunity to explore new avenues of research that are perhaps a bit more speculative, but have the potential for more important advances if successful.”

Heidi D. Klepin, MD, MS, Wake Forest University
Project Title: Minimizing Physical Function Decline in Older Adults Receiving Chemotherapy

“I am passionate about improving care for older cancer patients by helping develop and promote strategies to maintain physical function and quality of life while receiving active therapies for cancer.”

Samir Parekh, MD, Albert Einstein College of Medicine
Project Title: Targeting NOXA Methylation to Overcome Bortezomib Resistance in MCL

“This grant supports the translation of exciting laboratory findings into clinical trials that will ultimately help patients with lymphoma whose cancers have become resistant to standard agents.”

Jeroen Roose, PhD, University of California, San Francisco
Project Title: Therapeutic Targeting of the Oncogenic Ras Pathway in T cell Leukemia

“We are still not at a point where we can treat patients with certainty and rest assured of a good outcome. I hope that my work can contribute a small piece to the entire puzzle of the fight against cancer.”

Dorothy Sipkins, MD, PhD, The University of Chicago
Project Title: Regulation of Leukemia Cell Dormancy by the Bone Marrow Microenvironment

“This award allows me to explore innovative ideas that would not readily be supported by typical NIH funding mechanisms.”

Wei Tong, PhD, University of Pennsylvania
Project Title: Cytokine Signaling in Normal and Malignant Hematopoietic Stem/Progenitor Cells

“This funding not only provides monetary support for our research, but also gives me an increased sense of mission and urgency.”

Andrea Ventura, MD, PhD, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center
Project Title: Investigating the Roles of MicroRNAs in Lymphomagenesis

“We are beginning to see the fruits of this work, and I believe that with the help of my collaborators and thanks to the generosity of foundations like yours, we can make a difference.”

Shan Zha, MD, PhD, Columbia University
Project Title: The Role of ATM Kinase in Suppression of B cell Lymphomas

“This award provides much-needed seed funding that will allow us to better understand how the cancer starts and in the future, develop more effective diagnostic and therapeutic strategies.”

Meet Our Latest Grantees

Grantee News
The Foundation participated in the 2011 McKinsey & Company’s Gift of Hope program. This yearly charitable initiative invites McKinsey employees to donate to select charities with the promise of a matching gift. In 2010, McKinsey & Company raised $1.8 million. Special thanks to McKinsey employee Benjamin Wolff for inviting us and organizing all!

In 2011, Gabrielle's Angel Foundation made a gift to the Children's National Medical Center's Music Therapy Fund. Located in Washington D.C., Pam King Sams, CFRE and Chief Operating Officer of the Children's Hospital Foundation said this gift enables them to extend their music therapy program, to hire an additional music teacher and fund “further research on the impact of music on cancer patients.”

Our friends at Americana Manhasset truly believe in giving back. Through their yearly holiday promotion Champions for Charity®, shoppers helped us raise over $54,000 for cancer research. Since its inception, Champions for Charity® has helped participating charities raise over $6.2 million. To learn more about how you can join us this year, please visit: www.championsforcharity.org

Saks Fifth Avenue & Escada Host Luncheon

Our friends at Saks Fifth Avenue hosted a beautiful fashion show and luncheon for Gabrielle's Angel Foundation on November 15. The event featured the latest designs of international fashion house ESCADA. Models wowed the audience with ESCADA’s colorful and sleek designs while ladies lunched and shopped. The afternoon raised over $1,500 for the Foundation's research initiatives. Special thanks to Bettina Hammerl and Daniel Wingate from ESCADA and to Saks Fifth Avenue General Manager Suzanne Stemper-Johnson, Carolyn Fitzgerald, and Jacquelyn Barnes for making it all happen!

Your Dollars at Work

As reported in our cover article, we disbursed an impressive $3 million directly to our grantees from the $3.5 million raised at our recent Angel Ball. We pride ourselves on maintaining a high standard of fiscal accountability to our donors. Last year, under the careful and prudent leadership of Executive Director Jennifer Ranieri, the Foundation spent an incredible 8% on our gala. This is one of the many reasons both the Better Business Bureau and Independent Charities of America recognize Gabrielle’s Angel Foundation year after year.

New Office, Same Mission

Last December, Gabrielle's Angel Foundation moved to the heart of Midtown to 14 Penn Plaza. You can still reach us at (646) 861-2033 and find us online on Facebook and Twitter @CureCancerNow. For sixteen years, we have supported the country’s most cutting-edge, innovative thinkers in cancer research. Today, 83 cents of every dollar we raise directly funds these brilliant young scientists working toward a cure. Thank you for all you do to help us on our quest!
